Integration through prior knowledge project kick-off in Helsinki

Integration through prior knowledge (IntegPri) is an Erasmus+ small-scale project lead by Learning for Integration ry, an educational NGO from Finland, and partners Educom+ from Greece and Geinnova from Spain. The project focuses on strengthening teachers' skills with regard to how they can assess their refugee/migrant students' prior knowledge and then design learning activities which meet their needs and encourage their participation in the learning process. The dimension of teachers' efficiency is stressed as well as the impact of RPL in everyday educational practice. In order to detect whether these objectives have been reached, quantitative and qualitative research with teachers will be conducted within the project.

The project kicked off with the first meeting in Helsinki, Finland in April 2022. All partners met in Helsinki, and during the 2-day meeting decisions were made regarding the development of the main output of the project, The ABC of Recognition of Prior Knowledge (RPL) - A Handbook for Teachers and Trainers. Management, evaluation and dissemination and promotion of the project were also discussed. In addition, the partners had a sightseeing tour of Helsinki and visited Finnish restaurant Zetor to try some Finnish delicacies.

The partnership had a great time in Helsinki and is looking forward to the next meeting in Spain and working together on this project.
