Korean tidal flats were added to the UNESCO World Heritage list in July of last year. Known for their biodiversity and many endangered species, the tidal flats are an integral part of daily life for people who live on the island. However, visitors don't know how much it is important. So you are here to try to get more attention from them and the public about world heritage and the value of tidal flats to be preserved. It has a good geographic advantage so that you can experience world heritage in the environment and culture.

Work: Participants are divided into groups with locals and record local's life and activities related to tidal flats. The output will be donated to the village in the end. By doing this, we can raise the awareness of the visitors on the heritage related to tidal flats such as fishing tools and skills. They are in danger because residents are old and no one can succeed them. If you are interested in topics such as world heritage, environment, and communicating with local people you are very welcome to this project. Previous work/volunteer experience with skills in video editing and interviewing is an asset.

Accommodation and Food: In the local guest house / Meals are provided & Cooked by participants

Location: <https://goo.gl/maps/p1fx9ZkYR6uPG68z8>

Transportation: There are many schedule from Seoul (capital) to Suncheon KTX train station by train and bus. It will take about 2 hours and half by KTX train .Participants will be gathered at the meeting point and move to the project site by the bus and ferry together. The fares from the meeting point to the project site are covered.

There are about 270 people there in Seondo. This island is full of the beautiful flowers and colors. Local people had been putting efforts to preserve the island and make it better for the future for themselves. They regularly take care of ocean and coast together where it is their working place. There are huge wastes along the coast coming from the land and ships. And they like to find solutions for their community issues for themselves. Participant will support and take part in their activities.

Work: Participants will cooperate the beach cleaning day with local people and local youth. They will also organize and operate global camp for local youth in order to help their global competencies on the cultural understanding and solidarity. Participants will be asked to help the community issues in different villages too.

Food and accommodation: Participants stay at the guesthouse and cook for themselves and be also served by the host organization.

There are nice walking trails and you can find lots of small beautiful gardens strolling on everywhere in Island, Sonjukdo. That’s why this island is known well to backpackers. You can find beautiful hiking spots and sit back and relax while enjoying the view. However, you also notice that there are trashes on beaches, unfortunately. Beaches are especially impacted quite a lot because various plastics are carried to the island from the lands around and ships. Participants are going to pick up trash at the beach and make little gardens in the public places in the villages.

Work: Participants will clean beaches and make little gardens at public facilities in the villages by planting flowers and decorating with upcycled trashes and various materials. The island is already famous with gardens in each house cared by residents. Participants will make little gardens at the public site. The pictures and videos of the hand-made garden by participants will be uploaded to social media to promote the island. Any ideas from participants to make gardens looking good are welcomed.

Food and accommodation: Participants stay at the guesthouse and cook for themselves and be also served by the host organization.

Yeondo is composed of many islands and it contains many folktales related to nature, people, and buildings. And it belongs to national marine national park due to the their values which they contain such as nature, landscape and resources.

Local people want to make the island a story land with interesting legends of island and villages. As rapidly aging and shrinking populations of people, participants will help local people's job too.

Work: Storytelling is the best practice to share cultures. Participants will do the mural paintings with the local story. They will also help local elderly people's job in the seashore. If you are an outdoorsy person and love nature, it is a great opportunity to do physical work and learn from helping locals. Participants will also have international cultural day by inviting local people.

Food and accommodation: Participants stay at the guesthouse and cook for themselves and be also served by the host organization.

Gijeom Soakdo is a small island located in Shinan County which is surrounded by tidal flats. And the island is appointed as World Heritage in 2021 thanks to the value of tidal flats surrounding the island.

The island has been known as an attraction site (Named a 'isles of pilgrimage') among people looking for peaceful places. There are 12 chapels designed by artists and these architectures have nothing to do with any religion. Artists just took the metaphor from the 'route of Santiago de Compostela pilgrimage' and built them with meaningful stories and nature in cooperation with local people. The island wants to be a mother island to anyone who looks for peace and reflection on life.

Work: Participants will focus on the promotion of World Heritage and the value of the island to the public. Património, the symbol of the World Heritage as guardian will be made as little posts on the island in cooperation with the artist. They will organize '12 chapels visit program' in order to help visitor's reflection and insight. And participants will promote the World Heritage conservation to visitors and locals through events with their ideas. They also help the charity cafeteria which provide free meals to anyone.

Food and accommodation: Participants stay at the guesthouse and cook for themselves and be also served by the host organization

Gwanmaedo is famous for its wonderful nature, trails and beaches and it also belongs to Marine & coastal national park in Korea due to its nature and its value of them.

However, the beaches on the island are suffering from garbage and plastics coming from lands and ships. Participants will do the beach-cleaning in cooperation with the national park agency on other islands nearby.

Work: Participants will collect trash from the shoreline on beaches in Gwanmaedo and neighboring islands in cooperation with the national park agency. And they will paint the mural to decorate the village too. The work will bring very deep insight to participants regarding the environment preservation and plastic issue.

Food and accommodation: Participants stay at the guesthouse and cook for themselves and be also served by the host organization.

A large birthday cake sculpture welcomes visitors getting down from a ferry. Every day is a birthday in Saengildo. The coastal road forms a magnificent view with linden trees and the entire island is filled with evergreens.

The local government had encouraged local people to have a village-owned guesthouse for the local development. However, it is not very successful because local people are elderly people and not knowledgeable about the marketing and operating lodges for guests. Participants can contribute to the development of it with their experience and knowledge.

Work: Participants will organize interesting events with their ideas for guests and promote those events on social media such as international food night & cultures, and decorating guesthouses in-outdoor. They will also consider the maintenance of the guest house and advice local people on the better looking. Participants are required to be interested in the social events and organizing them.

Food and accommodation: Participants stay at the guesthouse and cook for themselves and be also served by the host organization.

Soando Island, the third in the group of three main islands of the Bogil-myeon island region. People on the island have proud of their history to carry out bravely the independence movement during the Japanese-colonized period. Therefore many ancestors had been nominated as national merit on an island. Participants can notice easily on the island how many local people love their country and are proud of their contribution and sacrifice.

Work: Participants will organize a summer peace camp for local youth to share the value of peace and harmony with neighboring countries. They will also run intercultural understanding activities. Participants will be required to bring the information and materials on how their school and society educate young people regarding rebuilding the relationship and trust with neighboring countries. During this project, it will be the National Liberation Day of Korea on August 15. It is celebrated every year and participants can attend an official ceremony held on the island.

Food and accommodation: Participants stay at the guesthouse and cook for themselves and be also served by the host organization.

Yeonhongdo is called a museum without a roof. You can see art along the street which is made of trash from the beach. Recycling has become an essential action to protect the environment. You can see how glass bottles, plastic bags, and other waste become a form of sustainable art magically.

Work: Participants' main job is to make art crafts and to renovate the art as they wear out with time. They will repaint, fix them and produce their own upcycled artworks in their creative way in cooperation with the artist.

The new and renewal art crafts will be displayed in the alleys in the villages and it will raise the awareness of the environmental issues visitors. It would be a chance to think about the planet's welfare.

Food and accommodation: Participants stay at the guesthouse and cook for themselves and be also served by the host organization.
